BEACHES

Kehoe Beach

This quiet, least accessible beach in Marin is located to the north of Point Reyes Station. Due to the wildlife, leashes are required. From Inverness, drive Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to the fork. Turn right on Pierce Point Road and drive about four miles. Park at the roadside and follow the signs about a half mile to the beach.

Limantour Beach, Olema.

Not as quiet as Kehoe Beach, but most people prefer this beach. Signs show that on some parts of the trails, dogs are prohibited. You may walk with your dog to Santa Maria Beach. From Highway One, turn between Olema and Inverness onto Bear Valley Road. Look for Limantour Road and turn south all the way to the beach.

Stinson Beach/Dog Beach

In the northern part of Stinson, where private houses are built, leashed dogs are permitted. Dogs are also allowed in Stinson Beach's picnic area by Eskoot Creek. Take the Beach exit from HW One. Turn right to the parking lots and park at the north end. Go right at the sign "no pets allowed on beach". Where the private houses start, dogs are allowed.

DOG FRIENDLY RESTAURANTS

In June 2010, the County Department of Environmental Health changed its regulations regarding dogs in restaurants. ### Marshall

Nick's Cove

Pets are part of the family. Their pastry chef bakes the own signature healthy dog-treats and plenty of water bowls are around for thirsty dogs. You'll find dog towels in the pet-friendly cottages, and the concierge is always happy to help guide you on pet-friendly walks and other services.
